SYNOPSIS

A richly photographed journey through old and new worlds across much of Central Europe. Through music and stories, anecdotes and legends, turn-of-the-century guidebooks and newspaper clippings, scenes from today, and films and photographs from the early 1900s a collage emerges of real people struggling, surviving, and living their lives between the worlds of tradition, change and upheaval.

Director, writer and editor: Paul Rosdy
Cinematographers: Robert Winkler
Wolfgang Thaler, Attila Boa, Peter Roehsler

For me New World is a mind opener. The old films and old texts were for me a new world, the people, the languages, the countries in the present time all opened a new horizon for me.
